THE UNWRITTEN LAW.

BY DAVID B. WILSON.

The natural religion in man has found expression in history, and the prevalence of this is assumed a valid argument for the being of God. And this because the law written on the heart, and developed in the life, is one with the written Word. God having made man, he must know what is in man, and we should therefore expect that the working out of his nature would result in a glimpse of other truths, also revealed. We have the distinct testimony of the Word of God, that rulers among men obtain their authority from him. "By me kings reign." (Prov. viii. 15). "I have said my yoke." (Ps. lxxviii. 1). "I have said my yoke." (Ps. lxxviii. 1). "I have said my yoke." (Ps. lxxviii. 1).
